

Boral exploring options for North American Fly Ash business

Boral Limited (ASX:BLD) announced today that as part of the review of its North American Fly Ash business, it is exploring options for the business. The review is part of a broader strategic review of the company's operations in North America. Boral is a leading global provider of specialty aggregates and construction materials, with a strong presence in Australia and New Zealand. The company is committed to sustainable growth and innovation, and this review is a key step in its ongoing efforts to optimize its global portfolio.